Hello Jeremy

I'm Little MOO - the bit of software that will be managing your order with us. It will shortly be sent to Big MOO, our print machine who will print it for you in the next few days. I'll let you know when it's done and on its way to you.

Remember, I'm just a bit of software. So, if you have any questions regarding your order please contact customer services (who are real people) at:

Thanks,

Little MOO, Print Robot
Why Does Everyone Always Look At Me? I know I'm a chalkboard and that's my job, I just wish people would ask before staring at me. Sometimes I don't have anything to say.
I'm The Unluckiest Chalkboard In Brighton. Summer's Coming And This Side Of The Building Is Always In The Shade. Please Come Inside And Tell Them To Move Me To The Western Wall.
Stop looking at me like I'm a waste of space! I'm not just a chalkboard you know! I'm also a supporting wall. I provide shelter from wild beasts + tropical storms. Go inside so I don't have to see you!
Call Me Paranoid But I’m Sure Someone’s Watching Me, Some Are Even Taking Pictures. I’m Not Sure Of My Rights As A Chalkboard But I Feel Violated. I’ll Be Watching You Mr. Keith!
Part story, part game, this is a book with a difference – one in which YOU become the hero!

Armed with two dice, a pencil and an eraser, you can set off on a perilous quest to find the Warlock’s treasure. YOU will need to decide which route to follow, and which monsters to fight in the elaborate combat system given in the book.

You may not survive your first journey. But with experience, skill and luck, each fresh attempt should bring you nearer to your great goal . . .

Interaction

For other uses, see Interaction (disambiguation).

Interaction is a kind of action that occurs as two or more objects have an effect upon one another. The idea of a two-way effect is essential in the concept of interaction, as opposed to a one-way causal effect. A closely related term is interconnectivity, which deals with the interactions of interactions within systems: combinations of many simple interactions can lead to surprising emergent phenomena. Interaction has different tailored meanings in various sciences. All systems are related and interdependent. Every action has a consequence.

Casual examples of interaction outside of science include:

- communication of any sort, for example two or more people talking to each other, or communication among groups, organisations, nations or states: trade, migration, foreign relations, transportation,
- the feedback during the operation of machines such as a computer or tool, for example the interaction between a driver and the position of his or her car on the road: by steering the driver influences this position, by observation this information returns to the driver.

Chemistry and medicine

In medicine, most medications can be safely used with other medicines, but particular combinations of medicines need to be monitored for interactions, often by the pharmacist. In molecular biology, the knowledge on gene/protein interaction among themselves and with their...
Just what does make me 'me'?

By Marcus du Sautoy
Professor of mathematics at the University of Oxford

Over the last few months I have been on an extraordinary journey to find out what makes me "me".

I have had my brain scanned, tricked, electrocuted, drugged in a plethora of different experiments in my attempt to find out what it is that gives me the feeling that there is someone inside my head.

Science calls it the search for consciousness. I call it the search for "me".

I was not always aware of myself as a human being separate from those around me.

But at what point does this self-awareness kick-in?

A fascinating experiment at University of Portsmouth indicates that it...

We are thrilled and excited you’d like to preview VaultPress before it’s available to the general public. Please fill out the application below, and in a few days we’ll start sending out the golden tickets for the first users to be able to sign up.

Howdy, my name is First Name Last Name. I’m interested in beta testing VaultPress and securing my blog, http://example.com. If the test goes well, I have 0 other blogs I’d want to run it on. I know you’re planning to charge about $25 a month for this, but in a perfect world I’d pay $25 a month to cover all my blogs. I’d call myself a personal user. You can reach me at name@example.com when my golden ticket is ready. I’m most interested in VaultPress because aliens are after my server.

The reason we suddenly need such a word is that during this century we have for the first time been dominated by non-interactive forms of entertainment: cinema, radio, recorded music and television. Before they came along all entertainment was interactive: theatre, music, sport...

We didn’t need a special word for interactivity in the same way that we don’t (yet) need a special word for people with only one head.

—Douglas Adams, August 29th 1999
